Two Participants of EoF and the Journey so far (VIDEO)

Agustina Brizuela is a 25-year-old Argentine political scientist. She works as an advisor on digital strategy in the Secretariat of Public Innovation of the Argentine Presidency since 2017. She is a PhD candidate in Political Science. For many years she developed social work in vulnerable sectors in Argentina. Academically, she is interested in political economy, local development studies, and innovation as a tool for development. She is a member of the Economy of Francesco and participates in the Finance and Humanity Village.

Nicolas Cestaroli is a Brazilian economist, 33 years old, change-maker and participant of the Economy of Francesco. Since 2015, he has worked for Oikocredit with impact investments in Brazil, supporting microfinance institutions, such as NGOs, Cooperatives, Fintechs and sustainable agriculture initiatives such as Organics, Fairtrade and other ESG initiatives. He joined the Economy of Francesco after being inspired by the Pope's encyclical "Laudato Si" through the possibility of unifying our efforts to care for our Common Home and Brotherhood.

Ideas and proposals

A Mighty network for doing good

🔍 We've already got what we want to change the world!

“We empower grass-root projects in local communities for vulnerable & excluded people through Financial and Human instruments”

“We are powered by the connected global network of EoF where everyone is passionate about a better economy for a better future.”

“We operate using technologies for instant connection, prompt response and up-to-date knowledge with all the changes of events ”

Ideas and proposals

Let's start with one project?

To support one of the projects presented in the subgroup as a concrete way of linking finance to the real economy.

Romulo- Project to include people in social disadvantaged

Ngan- Vietnam's Social Enterprises

Agustina- The digital point: a public initiative on Digital Inclusion

Vicky- Social businesses to support the charitable work in Santiago de Cuba.
